

Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine

Faculty Handbook

Bylaws

The College Bylaws define and describe the core infrastructure wherein rests the authority for the development and maintenance of the degree programs. Within the bylaws may be found a listing of the academic departments that report to the Dean of the College. Also listed are the standing committees responsible for recommending policies and establishing procedures for daily administrative operations. Among these are committees overseeing curriculum, faculty affairs, student admissions, and research.

The College Bylaws are a cooperative effort between the Office of the Dean and the faculty, who must approve any changes or amendments. They are updated periodically as the College grows and diversifies the scope of its activities. However, they are intended to anchor the administrative practices of the college in order to promote stability and consistency.

The current bylaws may be found at:

Note on Subordination

The College Bylaws are subordinate to the Bylaws of the Board of Trustees of Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine as amended and such equivalent documents produced by and for BCOM Investment Partners, LLC and BCOM Management, LLC.
