

Adrienne Kania, DO, FAAO

Associate Professor OMM

Adrienne Kania, DO is a graduate of Michigan State, College of Osteopathic Medicine in 1987 and she completed a rotating internship and Internal Medicine residency at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital in Garden City, MI. She is board certified in Osteopathic Manipulative Medicine and received her Fellow of the American Academy of Osteopathy in 2018. She practiced Internal Medicine in Colorado Springs, CO, until 2007. At that time, she began her teaching career at Rocky Vista University, College of Osteopathic Medicine and limited her practice to manual medicine. She is an Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine, Osteopathic Manipulative Medicine & Division Chief of OMM at Burrell College of Osteopathic Medicine since the school inaugural class in 2016. Her research interest are in OMT and their effects in clinical practice.